“This original and corrosive black comedy deserves a seat at the dinner table with the great American family plays.” —Richard Zoglin, TIME

“This fusion of epic tragedy and black comedy is...a bold step forward for Letts, whose earthy, distinctly contemporary wit flows throughout. His account of a family whose secrets and lies come spilling forth under duress ranks with the best American drama of the past decade.” —Elysa Gardner, USA Today

“A tremendous achievement in American playwriting: a tragicomic populist portrait of a tough land and a tougher people.” —David Cote, TimeOut New York

NEW YORK, March 2008—Theatre Communications Group (TCG) is pleased to announce the publication of August: Osage County by Tracy Letts. Originally presented in a sold-out run at Chicago’s Steppenwolf Theatre Company, where Letts is a member, the drama is currently playing in New York at the Imperial Theatre, where it is one of the most bracing and critically acclaimed plays in recent Broadway history. August: Osage County a portrait of the dysfunctional American family at its finest—and absolute worst. When the patriarch of the Weston clan disappears one hot summer night, the family reunites at the Oklahoma homestead, where long-held secrets are unflinchingly and uproariously revealed.

“The most exciting new American play Broadway has seen in years,” writes Charles Isherwood in the New York Times. “I’d bet the farm that no family has ever been as unhappy in as many ways—and to such sensationally entertaining effects—as the Westons of August: Osage County, a fraught, densely plotted saga of an Oklahoma clan in a state of near-apocalyptic meltdown. Fiercely funny and biting sad, this turbo-charged tragicomedy—which spans three acts and more than three blissful hours—doesn’t just jump-start the fall theater season, August throws it instantaneously into high gear.”

Tracy Letts is the author of Killer Joe, Bug and Man From Nebraska, which was a finalist for the 2004 Pulitzer Prize for Drama. He is a member of the Steppenwolf Theatre Company, where August: Osage County premiered. His latest play is Superior Donuts.
