THEATRE COMMUNICATIONS GROUP ANNOUNCES 2009 RECIPIENTS OF
THE NEA/TCG CAREER DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM FOR DIRECTORS AND DESIGNERS

New York, September 2009 — Twelve early-career directors and designers have been selected for the 2009 NEA/TCG Career Development Programs for Theatre Directors and Designers. The recipients were chosen by an independent, national selection panel composed of theatre professionals. These programs are administered by TCG, in association with the National Endowment for the Arts, with major support from The Ford Foundation.

In response to the announcement of the 2009 Career Development Program recipients, TCG’s executive director Teresa Eyring remarked, "TCG believes that fostering these talented early career artists is a privilege which reflects our ongoing commitment to the growth of individual artists and the vitality of the American not-for-profit theatre. We are proud to join with the National Endowment for the Arts and the Ford Foundation in supporting this year’s recipients of the NEA/TCG Career Development Program awards."

Through support from the Endowment, $25,000 is awarded to each of the six exceptionally talented theatre directors and six theatre designers who seek careers in America’s not-for-profit professional theatre. Through the support of The Ford Foundation, each recipient will receive an additional $2,000 to provide for individual, ongoing life needs such as health insurance, child care and parental care.

Carol Lanoux Lee, Acting Director of Theater and Musical Theater at the National Endowment for the Arts, added, "These programs provide exceptionally skilled young directors and designers with mentorship and guidance, bringing their talents to the attention of the national theater, and providing entry points into the field of working theater professionals. The Endowment is pleased to continue its collaboration with TCG and The Ford Foundation in nurturing gifted artists who will make fundamental contributions to American theater."

These programs offer recipients an opportunity to spend six months, over a two-year period, developing their skills and expanding their knowledge of the field. Each program is hand-tailored, matching the needs and goals of the recipient with appropriate and challenging assignments. Program activities may include assistantships, observation, research and travel.

Roberta Uno, Senior Program Officer for Arts and Culture at The Ford Foundation, stated, "We are pleased to support the NEA/TCG Career Development Programs, which are innovative models of support to individual artists. The programs enable exemplary artists to make a career in the American theater. In supporting their work and connecting them to leading theaters across the country, the arts in America are also strengthened."

The National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) The National Endowment for the Arts is a public agency dedicated to supporting excellence in the arts, both new and established; bringing the arts to all Americans; and providing leadership in arts education. Established by Congress in 1965 as an independent agency of the federal government, the Endowment is the nation's largest annual funder of the arts, bringing great art to all 50 states, including rural areas, inner cities, and military bases.

The Ford Foundation is an independent, nonprofit grant-making organization. For more than half a century it has been a resource for innovative people and institutions worldwide, guided by its goals of strengthening democratic values, reducing poverty and injustice, promoting international cooperation and advancing human achievement. With headquarters in New York, the foundation has offices in Africa, the Middle East, Asia, Latin America, and Russia.
Theatre Communications Group (TCG), the national organization for the American theatre, exists to strengthen, nurture and promote the professional not-for-profit American theatre. Founded in 1961, TCG's constituency has grown from a handful of groundbreaking theatres to nearly 700 member theatres and affiliate organizations and more than 12,000 individuals nationwide. TCG offers its members networking and knowledge-building opportunities through our conferences, events, research and communications; grants approximately $2 million per year to theatre companies and individual artists; advocates on the federal level and serves as the US Center of the International Theatre Institute, connecting its constituents to the global theatre community. TCG is the nation's largest independent publisher of dramatic literature, with 10 Pulitzer Prizes for Best Play on our booklist; it also publishes the award-winning AMERICAN THEATRE magazine and ARTSEARCH®, the essential source for a career in the arts. In all of its endeavors, TCG seeks to increase the organizational efficiency of its member theatres, cultivate and celebrate the artistic talent and achievements of the field and promote a larger public understanding of, and appreciation for, the theatre.

In 2005, TCG received the Tony Honors for Excellence in Theatre in recognition of its impact on the national field. TCG and its member theatres are major contributors to the American theatre sector, which employs more than 131,000 people, produces over 202,000 performances each year and contributes $1.9 billion to the US economy annually. A 501(c)(3) not-for-profit organization, TCG is led by executive director Teresa Eyring and governed by a national board of directors representing the theatre field. www.tcg.org.
